

SAFETY POLICY FOR HEALTH AND SECURITY WORK IN LOGIC

Logic spa is an Italian company founded in 1962 and which has been designing and manufacturing electronic equipment for application in both civil and military avionics systems for more than 50 years.

In carrying out its activities, Logic spa considers health and safety at work a not renounceable duty.

The Management, through this document, intends to define and communicate the goal of establishing and maintaining an Occupational Health and Safety Management System appropriate to its reality in order to achieve corporate health and safety objectives defined with specific improvement programs.

The Occupational Health and Safety Management System, in compliance with the international technical standard UNI EN ISO 45001: 2018, is applied to all Logic offices and to the following activities:

Cassina de Pecchi:

- Research, design, development, manufacture, maintenance and overhaul of military and civil aeronautical equipment;
- Development and maintenance of embedded software for aeronautical applications for military and civil use.

Milan:

- Representative office

Logic spa undertakes to:

- provide workers with a healthy working environment and safe working conditions in order to prevent accidents at work and the onset of occupational diseases.
- identify all legal and non-legal requirements applicable to each aspect of health and safety, making adequate management and economic resources available in order to maintain compliance with these requirements over time;
- identify all the dangers and risks related to its activities and implement the necessary prevention and protection actions with the aim of reducing the risks to health and safety in the workplace and continuously improving the performance of its safety management system;
- promote and spread a philosophy of safeguarding health and safety at work within and outside the company;
- inform, educate and train the workers about the consequences for the health and safety of everyone;
- operate according to the principle of continuous improvement of its management system by promoting the participation and consultation of interested parties, in particular workers and their representatives;

Logic S.p.A.'s Occupational Health and Safety Policy is available to the public and communicated internally to its employees.

Aims and Objectives

Logic S.p.A. aims to establish a health and safety management system at work, improve system performance over time, promote a culture of safety among workers, actively involve workers in consultation and participation in the system.

Logic spa also is constantly engaged to measure its safety performance through the defined indicators.
